From BHSart illustrator Jimmy Quentin Trapp: I like to bring character into what I draw. When I begin a project, I like to examine other artists and try to go a little further than them, breaking any possible artistic boundaries while staying true to the themes I desire. I don't look at my art as necessarily a way to express myself, but rather as a way to connect with others. Art is a story to me, and I like to hear how my stories connect with those I have the privilege to share them with. From Richard Keller of Wooden Pants

Publishing: It's a privilege to see an artist who combines two creative outlets that, at first, don't have much of a connection. Jimmy Quentin Trapp has a number of interests, two of them being art and Barbershop. Not the place to get your hair cut, but the art of a capella harmonies that is an international sensation. Jimmy has been a lover of barbershop since he was little, and he has followed The International Barbershop Quartet Champions in The Barbershop Harmony Society for decades. In 2015 he was asked to draw a representation of one of the past winners. His drawing amazed so many barbershoppers that more asked for drawings of their own groups. Soon enough, the idea for BHSart came about. There is much more to the story of Jimmy, his love of Barbershop, and his representation of the annual winners from 1939 until today. In order to find out more of the details you have to pick up BHSart
