A Christmas Carol: The Original 1843 Manuscript Charles Dickens

It was already October and Charles Dickens was determined to have his ghost of an idea published in time for Christmas 1843. And so began six weeks of furious, dogged, rapid writing of that most beloved classic, A Christmas Carol. Come watch Dickens compose the endearing tale, page by page, crossing out, changing names, adding text — his black-inked quill pen fairly flying across every page of the fine paper he used. “My own, and only, manuscript,” Dickens scrawled on the cover page. And now, the one and only full-color facsimile, made possible by The Morgan Library & Museum, keepers of the priceless handwritten draft. The Morgan lovingly restored each page to its original state before digitizing it, so that you come to each sheet of paper as Dickens would have. A fascinating back-story by Morgan curator Declan Kiely puts you right there with Dickens as he labors over his little book. And still another delight: a newly discovered photograph of Dickens, never before published. Buy this collector’s edition speedily — it is the one and only opportunity you will have to own this treasure. Only from Levenger.
